Australian Cardiovascular Data Commons (ACDC) Platform: Privacy Policy

This Privacy Policy applies to personal information collected on the ACDC platform.

The ACDC platform is Australia's first global standards-based human Data Commons, bringing together large, established, well-phenotyped cohorts with molecular profiling such as genomic, metabolomic, proteomic etc. The platform will support the validation of existing risk markers and the discovery of new markers of early atherosclerosis and cardiovascular disease risk, which will allow users to leverage high value data resources for maximal health and economic impact. It is a not-for-profit medical research project and will yield infrastructure that will directly inform and benefit other data intensive precision medicine programs.

The ACDC is committed to ensuring the privacy and confidentiality of your personal information. We will endeavour to handle your personal information in accordance with the Commonwealth Privacy Act (including the Australian Privacy Principles) and other relevant state and territory laws.

This Privacy Policy explains in general terms how the ACDC protects the privacy of the personal information that you provide to us via our website and to personal information that we collect about you under any other agreement or arrangement.

Scope

This Privacy Statement applies to the personal information of consumers that is collected or used by ACDC, its affiliates or subsidiaries (collectively, “ACDC”, “we”, “our”, “us”). This Statement applies to all the personal information that ACDC collects when Data users interact with us, such as when visiting the ACDC website, using ACDC data or requesting data and when interacting with us as a researcher, academic or any organisational representative.

This includes, without limitation, all online and offline collections of all types of personal information.

Information collection

ACDC may request you to provide personal information for purposes including, but not limited to when you are requesting ACDC website data access and / or any specific study data details or data access.

ACDC maintains physical, technical, and administrative safeguards to protect your personal information and only allows disclosures as permitted by law to assist in providing products or services.

Personal information collected may include:

- Contact information such as name, address, email, telephone number, mobile number, fax number, name of organisation and/or job title; research objectives, purpose of your data access request and other personal information,

- Professional titles, registration or speciality field, professional qualifications, publications, awards, references, completed trainings etc.

ACDC will retain and use the personal information collected for above mentioned processes and processing purposes in accordance with legal obligations.

Legal Bases

The legal basis ACDC uses to process personal information will be dependent on the processing purposes and the jurisdictional legal requirements.

If you choose not to provide the personal information we reasonably require, it may hinder the ability of ACDC to provide the information, data or services you have requested.

Retention of Information

ACDC will retain your personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to comply with legal obligations or for no longer as required for legitimate business purposes.

Disclosure of Information

ACDC can share personal information with respective data providers / data custodians for your data access request operations during the data access approval process. ACDC may also share personal information we have collected with study organisations or study investigators while working on our behalf to help fulfil business needs of providing data access request operations including data transfer communications. ACDC does not share your personal information with unaffiliated third parties for their own purposes.

Security

The security and confidentiality of your personal information matters to us. For this reason, ACDC has physical, technical, and administrative controls in place to protect your personal information from unauthorised access, use and disclosure. ACDC evaluates these safeguards on an ongoing basis to help minimise risks from new security threats as they become known.

Rights

You may request details of personal information which we hold about you. If you believe that any personal information we are holding about you is incorrect or incomplete, and if you wish to update or correct the personal information we hold about you, please contact the ACDC immediately and we will take reasonable steps to either correct this information, or if necessary, discuss alternative action with you.

If you have a query on how your personal information is collected or used, or any other query relating to this Privacy Policy, please contact and/or send email to: XXXX@XXXX.XX.

We will respond to your query or concern as soon as possible and will try to resolve any complaint within 10 working days. If this is not possible, we will contact you within that time to let you know how long we estimate it will take to resolve your concern. If you are unsatisfied with the outcome, we will advise further options including, if appropriate, review by the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner.

PLEASE READ THIS PRIVACY STATEMENT CAREFULLY. THIS PRIVACY STATEMENT IS MADE AVAILABLE ON ACDC WEBSITE.